

Robert Smalls Worksheet

Dare To Be Great: Test Your Waters

If you're going to do anything truly worthwhile with your life, anything really great, you have to be willing to get off the shore and venture beyond the safe harbors of your life. It takes courage to forge ahead beyond the usual, the ordinary, the routine and into the unknown.

List the safe harbors of your life (This can be simple things like sleep or gaming or person/place)?

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.

What would you consider to be deep waters (Areas you are hesitant to try, healthy food or a talent)?

- 1.
- 2.

What is important enough for you to take courage and be willing to venture beyond your safe harbors, into the deep waters?

What risks are you willing to take to prepare for that deeper life?

Count the cost (practice, getting up earlier, internships, study, etc.):

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.